One hundred years ago, nearly a quarter of the world's people were controlled in some way by the British Empire. As the UK has divested itself of its overseas colonies, so it has developed its international role within organizations such as the United Nations and NATO.

The past produced some great missionaries and Gospel preachers. God used the UK to evangelize the world much in the same way that the United States in this generation is making strong strides to advance the Gospel throughout the world.

After the World Wars, England turned away from church attendance and interest in religious matters. Today only 10% claim to attend church on a regular basis.. There are many communities in England where there is no Bible-believing independent Baptist Church.
